Cancer: A personal perspective
Kym Whalley
East Timor
I tried to tell people how I felt, that the pain was different.

It seemed I just didn't make enough noise.
listening means taking a second to consider what they're saying, not just hearing their words.
How do I tell this crazy bunch
Chemo for Christmas, yay
Life is good, returning to normal
It returned....
Peritonectomy with HIPEC

What is that?

- involves removing all cancerous sections of the peritoneum
- applying hyperthermic intraperitoneal chemotherapy (HIPEC)
Finally
What have I done!

- Being informed about the procedure
- Believing you understand
- The reality
Pathology Results

- The greater omentum – finding metastatic mucinous colorectal adenocarcinoma
- Pancreatic nodule – finding metastatic mucinous colorectal adenocarcinoma
- Rectal lesion - finding metastatic mucinous colorectal adenocarcinoma
- Peritoneum bladder - finding metastatic mucinous colorectal adenocarcinoma
- Splenic flexure - finding metastatic mucinous colorectal adenocarcinoma
- Right ovary - finding metastatic mucinous colorectal adenocarcinoma
- Middle colic pedicle – no evidence of malignancy
- Left ovary - finding metastatic mucinous colorectal adenocarcinoma
- Pelvic peritoneum - finding metastatic mucinous colorectal adenocarcinoma
- Gallbladder – no evidence of malignancy
Chemo with a bit of fun
Thank you for listening to my story